Dalton Receives Endorsement from Wake County Voter Education Coalition

RALEIGH- Senator Walter Dalton, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor, announced that he has received the endorsement of the Wake County Voter Education Coalition. The Wake County Voter Education Coalition is a civic organization whose primary goal is to educate its members and the greater Raleigh area on candidates running for office.

“It is an honor to receive the endorsement from the Wake County Voter Education Coalition,” Dalton said. “Their endorsement reflects a longtime commitment to serving the people of this state with the goal of achieving what is truly one North Carolina. I look forward to working with the Coalition and its members as Lieutenant Governor.

The endorsement comes on the heels of other major African-American individual and organizational endorsements. Senator Dalton has already been endorsed by former state Auditor Ralph Campbell, former Congresswoman Eva Clayton, the Simkins PAC in Greensboro, and the 8th District Black Leadership Caucus.

“We were proud to endorse Senator Dalton because of his outstanding record in the Senate,” Coalition Chairman Eugene Weeks said. “He has always stood up for the ordinary people in North Carolina and has a record of bringing people together to improve our schools, help provide North Carolinians with affordable and quality health care, and bring good jobs to the state. He will make a great Lieutenant Governor.”
